You can get various things like thread and secrets dump with this script: with it simply running it it doesn't even require root permission So to make your script executable: chmod +x script.sh so in theory you could just call the script from command line or any other UI by running ./script.sh and it would call the script and send that information to this pastebin site I used (or you could change it to use whatever you want and send directly back to you. First thing to do is find where the script starts. In your case it starts with:

C:/Users/myUser/AppData/Local/roaming/temp/r01.exe You can make it be at a folder instead of the roaming one by putting there something like this: C:/Users/myUser/AppData/Local/roaming/temp/{0}/r01.exe So you could make it to be something like this: C:/Users/myUser/AppData/Local/roaming/temp/r01.exe/chrubuntu_dec24.ogg In which case you need to change the line C:/Users/myUser/AppData/Local/roaming/temp/r01.exe to

C:/Users/myUser/AppData/Local/roaming/temp/r01.exe/chrubuntu_dec24.ogg Now that you have your script to send back information. You can add it to the cron that pulls that information periodically. To do that go to /etc/crontab in terminal or use this command: sudo f678ea9f9e
